WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Author William Manchester may write a personal memoir—entitled "My Ordeal with the Kennedy's"—as a sequel to the four-part serialization of "The Death of a President" in Look magazine.

William Attwood, editor-in-chief of Look, confirmed yesterday that the magazine is "definitely interested" in recounting Manchester's conflicts with the Kennedy family over the book they commissioned and later sued to suppress.

Attwood said that Manchester has yet to write the account and that it may be published in the spring. Another source said Look was considering using a photograph of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, attired in a pair of tight-fitting slacks, as a cover for the Manchester article.
